

Stories of LOVE

Hi, my name is Edmund, but you can call me Eddie – that’s me on your right. I’d like to share the story of how my family found love (that’s me!) at Atlanta Humane Society (AHS).

I came to AHS as a young kitten from a county shelter. I wasn’t feeling so good when I arrived – it turns out I had an upper respiratory infection and a nasty case of ringworm. No one could touch me without gloves.

After what felt like a lifetime, I got the all-clear from the nice doctors saying that I was well enough to get neutered, and after that I could be on my way to the adoption floor!

That’s when I met my Mom. She came to visit me. She just lost her cat of 10 years suddenly and needed just to see a kitten to cheer her up. She wasn’t looking for another cat yet, but I was determined to win her over.

When she came into the room, I stuck my paws out to introduce myself, “Hi, can we be friends?” She didn’t even have to touch me – just the attention was enough for me to start purring. All I wanted was for someone to love me.

She immediately called her husband, who came to meet me that very day. The rest is history!

Now I’m living the life every cat dreams of, at my home with my two sisters – a dog, Riley, and a cat, Bruiser. It was clear that Bruiser missed her recently departed sister. Mom and Dad said she was acting out horribly. I charmed my way into Bruiser’s heart, and I quickly became her best friend – she’s much happier now.

I play with both my sisters all the time – they never know when the D-mon will strike next! When I’m not playing, I love grooming and snuggling with Bruiser, and curling up with Mom, Dad and Riley. I’m a professional snuggler.

They all say that I make their family complete again, and that they’re so lucky because I’m friendly and everyone just adores me. I’m so happy to have a home and a family who loves me!
