Atlanta Humane Society’s H.E.A.R.T. to the Rescue

By Carl Leveridge, President

When the need is presented, Atlanta Humane Society will be there to the rescue – especially when it means saving the lives of animals. As the lyrics to an old song once said, we’ve “gotta have H.E.A.R.T.”!

Hurricanes, fires, floods, puppy mill rescues and transporting of animals all demand an immediate emergency response. Most of the time, there is little warning and these unique situations require special preparedness, training and skills. This ever increasing need is what prompted our proactive decision to purchase an emergency transport vehicle, which we have appropriately named ‘H.E.A.R.T.’ – Humane Emergency Animal Rescue Team.

We could never plan for or anticipate every situation requiring an emergency response, but with this new vehicle, we can give it our best effort. The H.E.A.R.T. is a 40-foot fifth wheel trailer hauled by a Dualley pickup truck. It can accommodate both people and animals. It is equipped with a generator and both a kitchen and bathroom, thus providing the necessary housing for our employees when they are located in disaster situations. Inside, crates can be interchanged depending on the disaster situation and the types and sizes of animals to be transported.

Atlanta Humane Society will be ready to respond with a well-equipped, state-of-the-art response vehicle. This addition will allow AHS to give even greater support to our community, our state, and all animals needing assistance wherever and whenever they need it.

An endeavor like this never comes about easily or without hard work. But with so great a need, our forward thinking Board of Directors made the decision to purchase the H.E.A.R.T. to be ready to respond.

The decision to acquire an emergency vehicle during these challenging economic times was made after taking many circumstances under consideration. Spending money to save the lives of animals needing emergency care does force us to ask for your help.

Atlanta Humane Society cannot successfully do what is needed without the generous donations of benefactors who believe in the worthwhile cause of saving the lives of animals. As we have demonstrated over the years of caring for animals, AHS will put every penny given to the desired goal of responding to emergency needs and finding every adoptable animal a home.

Please come and visit us so we can demonstrate what is being done at Atlanta Humane Society for animal welfare, emergency care of animals and why we think you would welcome the opportunity to support the animals. We will make you proud that Atlanta Humane Society will be there to the RESCUE.

You will have the opportunity to participate in each rescue mission with AHS and the H.E.A.R.T. Your $500 donation will allow your name or your pet’s name to be placed prominently on the H.E.A.R.T. for the entire life of the emergency rescue unit.

Please help us and show that you support the proper care and treatment of our loving four-pawed companions.

Can you find it in your heart to help send our H.E.A.R.T. where it is needed?

Thanks for your support and generosity.

This year’s Pet Parade participants welcomed a sunny morning on Saturday, May 2. Candler Park was packed with animal lovers and their pets and everyone enjoyed a variety of activities including dog demos, a micro-chipping clinic, doggie musical chairs and bobbing for burgers.

Our emcee, Denzil of Dave FM, kept the crowd entertained, while Dagmar Midcap spontaneously hosted a variety of contests including the always popular “PetOwner Look-A-Like” and “Best Trick” competitions.

This year, the Seed and Feed Marching Abominable band led a parade of AHS supporters on an extended walk route through the streets and welcoming business district of Candler Park. It was a glorious morning with thousands of paws hitting the pavement to help end pet homelessness forever!

A huge thanks to our top fundraisers.

Ask The Browns

Dear Browns,

I have a problem. I love my neighborhood, but I don’t love all the people (or dogs) in it. Some let their dogs run loose, and these are not friendly dogs. They approach people while they are enjoying a stroll, or walking their own leashed dogs, and are scary. One neighbor’s small dog was attacked by one of these out-of-control dogs, and, the owners of the loose dog couldn’t care less! We have all tried talking with them (their dogs live outside and definitely are not part of the family), but it is no use. They think it is their “right” to allow their dogs to roam. I am scared to take my Bella (who is 65 pounds and no slouch herself, but is not willing to get beaten up) for walks! Help!

Marcy L., Grant Park

Gherkin: I am so sorry this is happening to you, and to other responsible dog owners everywhere. It really chaps my Chihuahua, to say the least. (I guess that didn’t come out right, but you get my drift.) It’s rude, it’s dangerous, and it’s plain un-neighboringly.

Paco: As small dogs, we are particularly vulnerable to these scofflaws, so I know what you are going through. But, you have an agency that you are paying to help you—and you need to call them.

Gherkin: He’s right: it’s Animal Control in your county. I know, that’s probably not what you wanted to hear, but it’s what you have…and they can help!

See, many people have reservations about reporting loose dogs or inhume circumstances with pets to Animal Control. Though no one appreciates being harassed by dangerous or potentially aggressive animals, and no one likes to see suffering, when told to “call Animal Control,” many people blanch at the thought. They don’t want to get their neighbors in trouble.

But if you don’t call Animal Control, an agency that your tax dollars are funding to keep you and the animals in your community safe, then who will report the situation? Many people complain about roaming animals, and some are so worried that their own dog’s exercise needs suffer. Some wonder why doesn’t “Animal Control do something?” Well, how will they know there is a problem if you don’t report it?

Reporting abuse and loose dogs to Animal Control is a civic duty. Pets that belong to irresponsible people are a hazard and a nuisance, and the owners need to be taken to task for it. One call might not get action, but 2, 3, or more calls will. How is it fair for irresponsible people to “get off the hook” when their actions jeopardize YOUR safety, and the safety of your pets? Animal Control has the police power to write citations and bring charges when needed. They are a valuable resource to the responsible pet owner.

So if you have a run-in with a loose dog or an irresponsible owner, or you see abuse or neglect, report it. Do it more than once if you have to. Please. Sometimes, it is truly the kindest call you can make.

Paco: That was quite eloquent. Nicely done. Now, can we nap?

Friends For Life

Dear AHS,

Max appeared in our driveway late August 1992. After a week of looking for his owner, we took him to the Humane Society where he stayed a week before we went back and adopted him.

Max passed away August 16, 2006 at age 14 years and 4 months. He knew his Grandma and loved her visits. He would take the little toys she brought him and put them in his private place on the living room sofa. He was a beautiful little spirit – that will always be with us.

Thanks again,

Judi Morgan

Ruby Crawford, Long Time AHS Supporter

Ruby Crawford, a Board member of the Atlanta Humane Society for thirty-five years, passed away June 6, 2009. She was born in Temple, Georgia, but had made Atlanta her home for the last 65 years. With her twin Ruth, she spent more than 33 years at First National Bank of Atlanta (now Wachovia), where they were named outstanding bank women in the United States. They also went to law school and had successful careers as attorneys, and later, as real estate agents.

They became lawyers when it was not popular for women to be lawyers, having given up on being doctors, which was their real desire in life. As fifty-eight (58) year members of the Georgia Bar Association, they helped with a documentary, “Seventy-five Year History of the Georgia Association for Women Lawyers.” They were known as the “Trailblazers” for women in law and in banking in Georgia. After taking early retirement from banking, Ruby began a real estate career with Northside Realty at West Paces Ferry Road. She won a Humanitarian of the Year award and was a member of the “Million Dollar Club.” Ruby also served as a Docent at the Jimmy Carter Library and was a member of the original “Peanut Brigade,” having campaigned for Jimmy Carter in many states. She worked for many years staffing conventions for the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau and, also, the Visitor Information desks at Peachtree Center and Lenox Square. Ruby was active in many business, religious, professional, civic and political endeavors and was a member of various organizations for the betterment of the city of Atlanta and won many awards and accolades.

Ruby and Ruth appeared as guest panelists on “The Oprah Winfrey Show” in Chicago and stumped the panel on “What’s My Line?” in New York City and appeared on many radio and TV programs in New York City, Washington, D.C., New Orleans, San Diego, and Mexico, urging people to choose banking as a career.

Ruby was a charter member and past President of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants and won the National Trophy given by the American Women’s Society of Certified Public Accountants as the most outstanding chapter in the United States during her presidency. She was also past President of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, the Delta Sigma Gamma Legal Sorority, the Georgia Twin Association, the Quarter-Century Club of the First National Bank and the Wachovia Bank Retirement Club. Ruth and Ruby were often chosen as the most identical twins in their age category in the Georgia Twins Association, and also in the International Twins Association, which they attended for many years.

Ruby’s hobbies included dogs, gardening and growing lovely flowers, cooking and entertaining, ceramics, oil painting, music, theater, the arts, and sports, especially fishing and baseball. She and her twin had beautiful white twin poodles, named Kandi and Kisses, but she loved all dogs. The twins were famous as enthusiastic spectators at the annual Peachtree Road Race on the Fourth of July for many years with their white poodles, dressed in red, white and blue, cheering on all the thousands of participants.

They are featured in a chapter in the book “Southern Belle Primer, or Why Princess Margaret Will Never Make Kappa Kappa Gamma,” entitled, “The Moonlight and Magnolia Crawford Twins,” written by Maryln Schwartz, syndicated columnist for the Dallas Morning News. They were honored by their selection as “Most Gracious Ladies of Georgia” 30 years ago and honored annually by the Court of Gracious Ladies in Columbus, Georgia. They were presented with the Deen Day Smith “Tribute to Service Award” for their many contributions of service to others. Ruth and Ruby filmed a documentary on “Lost Atlanta - The Way We Were” for Georgia Public Television, appeared as extras in “The Last Surviving Confederate Widow Tells All” and had supporting roles in a movie filmed on Jekyll Island entitled “Jekyll - No Place to Hyde.”

Ruby and Ruth were inducted into the Atlanta Convention and visitors Bureau “Hospitality Hall of Fame,” the first women to be so honored, and their portraits are hanging permanently in the Georgia World Congress Center Hall of Fame. They also were honored by Channel 11 WXIA-TV, receiving the Atlanta Community Service Award. The Georgia Association for Women Lawyers honored Ruth and Ruby by naming their scholarship the “Ruth and Ruby Crawford Foundation Scholarship Award,” and after Ruth’s death, this year Ruby was honored by the Association with the highest and most prestigious award given by the Association, the Kathleen Kessler Award.

The late Mayor William B. Hartsfield, a dear friend, referred to the twins as the “twenty-four hour Crawford Twins,” who spent every moment helping others, and said the reason Rome was not built in a day was because they were not there. Noted for their great sense of humor, they lived by the Golden Rule, always putting others first instead of self. They loved people, especially the elderly, and believed you could never have too many friends, saying that a stranger was just a friend they had not yet met.

Ruby loved being a twin and felt that God had blessed her in a special way. In fact, she felt “sorry” for anyone who was not a twin. She dearly loved Atlanta, and told everyone who would listen, that “when you live in Atlanta, Heaven can wait.” The twins were givers and not takers, and they believed that it is more blessed to give than to receive. They believed that what you have in life is what you give. They were known for their generosity and kindness to people and for their loving spirits, their lives serving as an inspiration to others. They simply wanted to “make a difference” in the world and to make it a better place for others for their having lived.

Keep Your Pets Cool in “Hot-lanta”
WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT HOT WEATHER

With the lazy days of summer upon us, the Atlanta Humane Society urges pet owners to be aware that their companion animals could be in dire danger as the temperature rises.

Heat and humidity is miserable for humans, but for pets, it can be deadly. Unlike humans, pets do not perspire to cool themselves. Instead, the movement of air into and out of the lungs rids their bodies of excess heat and moisture, allowing them to maintain their normal body temperature. When the temperature is so high that the cooling mechanisms no longer work effectively, the animal collapses from heatstroke, which is a life threatening emergency.

Many people love spending time with their pets and they like to take them everywhere they go, but this decision can be dangerous. The following tips can help ensure that your pet stays cool while you enjoy the summer:

- Never leave your animal alone in a vehicle. Even with the windows open, a parked vehicle can instantly become a furnace. In ten minutes, the temperature inside a car could reach 160 degrees. Additionally, parking in the shade offers little protection because the sun shifts during the day. The best thing you can do for your pet is to leave him or her at home even if you are making a quick trip to the store.

- Always provide plenty of shade for an animal staying outside the house. A properly constructed doghouse is the best shelter, along with plenty of cool, clean drinking water. When the temperature is above 80 degrees, the Atlanta Humane Society recommends you bring your pet inside to rest in a cool part of your house.

- Very young, sick, overweight and old animals should not be kept outdoors. These animals already have a delicate immune system and will not be able to withstand extreme temperatures. Also, keep in mind that Brach Cephalic dogs (snub-nosed breeds such as bulldogs, lhasa apsos and Shih tzus) and those with heart or lung diseases should be kept indoors in air conditioning as much as possible.

- Do not force your animal to exercise in hot, humid weather. The best time to take walks with your dog is in the cool early morning or late evening. Otherwise, during the hot afternoon, keep necessary bathroom walks short in distance.

- Walk on the sidewalk or grass. Paws easily burn on the street since they are not protected by shoes. Also, remember that your pet is much closer to the hot asphalt than you are, causing his body to heat up more rapidly.

- Always have plenty of cool, clean drinking water available for your pet. When traveling or exercising with your pet, carry a water bottle and take frequent water breaks.

- Sunscreen: Not for just humans anymore. Apply small amounts of sunscreen to any skin-exposed area on your pet if they will be in the sun for any amount of time. Pets with light fur are the most at-risk for sunburns.

- Heartworm, flea and tick prevention. Check your pet regularly for fleas and ticks as they are more common in the hot weather. In addition, be sure your pet is on heartworm prevention medication. Mosquitoes — also more prevalent in hot weather — are a transmitter of this deadly parasite.

Employee Spotlight
Off To Iraq

AHS Adoption Counselor Tarik Nickens knew this day would be coming. He’s been in the Army National Guard for several years, and has been on many training stints since his employment with AHS began in 2006, but now he’s being sent overseas for a year. Instead of helping new pet owners through the AHS adoption process and educating them about their new pet, he’ll be helping to keep the peace in the Middle East.

Of course, his job helping pups, kittens, and their people will be waiting for him when he returns, but we sure will miss him. We wish him the best of luck, safe passage, and a huge thank you for his service. We salute all our servicemen and women, and the huge sacrifices they make, and wish them and their families well.
